Background

The Ontario Liberal Party's 2025 election promises:

Context

In the 2022 election the Ontario Liberal Party gained another seat for a total of eight, but with changes to the party status legislation increasing the seat requirement to 12, the Liberals did not obtain official party status in the Legislature. The party worked to rebuild, choosing Bonnie Crombie as leader in December 2023. Most recently the Mayor of the City of Mississauga, Bonnie Crombie also served as a city councillor and was a former Member of Parliament (MP).

AMCTO 2025 Provincial Election Priorities

While we are pleased to see some commitments to municipal infrastructure in relation to our 2025 provincial election priorities, there has been no commitment to a Social and Economic Prosperity Review or discussion of more stable, predictable funding and investment for municipalities. The party committed to a fair, “New Deal for Municipalities” at the 2024 Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) conference, and it was mentioned again during the Ontario Northern Leaders' Debate. Though not in the party's policy announcements, we did receive a commitment from the Liberals during delegations at the 2025 Rural Ontario Municipal Association (ROMA) conference that should they form the next government, legislative changes to the Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (MFIPPA) and the Municipal Elections Act (MEA) would be on the table.
